THE FAIR OF THE TYPOS.

Meeting of the Board of Control Last

A meeting of the board of control of the fair to be given by Columbia Typographical Union No. 101, beginning November 27, 1899, was held last evening, and reports read from the various committees in charge of the arrangements. It is predicted that the coming fair will eclipse every entertainment given by the union in the past. The board had under consideration specifications for the booths and the electrical lighting of the main hall. It is the intention of the committee to have the main hall, in which the ten booths will be arranged, excel anything that has been seen in the District in the way of decorations. It is expected that the fair will be honored by a visit from President McKinley, and there is a promise that each evening one or more distinguished visitors will be pres-

It was also reported at the meeting that members of the downtown chapels had been out among the merchants canvassing for donations in the interest of their booth, and had met with a great deal of success. The committee has arranged for a fine buffet to be conducted during the entire week in the banquet hall, and as Thanksgiving day comes during the fair week it giving day comes during the fair week it has been decided to furnish a fine turkey duner that day. The fair will also be opened at 10 a.m. Thanksgiving day. AFFAIRS IN GEORGETOWN LAW IS AMBIGUOUS IN BEHALF OF CHARITY Decision of Justice Bradley Affecting Police Case.

COMMITMENT OF A SUSPICIOUS PERSON

The Act Imposing Penalty Cannot Be Enforced.

RELEASE OF PRISONER

Judge Bradley discharged George Frazier, colored, from the custody of the workhouse officials today on a writ of habeas corpus. Frazier was tried in the Police Court several days ago, and was committed to the workhouse as a suspicious character. The decision of Judge Bradley is that the law, so far as "suspicious person" is concerned, cannot be judiciously enforced. It is, therefore, rendered inoperative.

This decision is of considerable importance to the local authorities, especially to the members of the police department, and it may have effect upon the detectives in their work of picking up alleged pickpockets and holding them as alleged "suscicious persons.'

George Frazier, colored, a stranger in the city, was arrested in South Washington about two weeks ago by Detectives Peck nd Miller, and held in custody because he and Miller, and held in custody because he had disposed of a quantity of new clothing to second-hand stores. His claim was that he bought the clothing at sales in different cities and came here for the purpose of opening a store. After arriving here he changed his mind, he said, and sold some of the goods. The officers took about $300 worth of new clothing from his room and held it for identification. Nobody having identified the property, the accused man was taken into the Police Court and tried.

Sentence Imposed. Judge Kimball heard the case and sentenced Frazier to pay a fine of $40 or to serve four months in the workhouse. Then Attorneys W. Calvin Chase, Thos. L. Jones and Perri W. Frisby sought to get their client released. They resorted to the Su-preme Court of the District and a writ of client released. They resorted to the Suppreme Court of the District and a writ of habeas corpus, issued by Judge Bradley, was argued by them yesterday. Attorney Duvall and Assistant Attorney Sinclair argued the case for the District.

The petition filed in support of the writ alleged that Frazier had been tried on an information charging him with being a "suspicious person," and declared that his detention was unlawful and that he was held without right, principally because the evidence did not justify the conviction. Filed in the case was a copy of the commitment, which showed that the petitioner had been convicted of a charge of being a "suspicious character." At the hearing it was claimed that the information was insufficient, because it charged the offense merely in the words of the statute and it was defective because it did not follow the wording in the information.

In deciding the matter Judge Bradley said he could not expected.

In deciding the matter Judge Bradley aid he could not consider the questions outhing on the sufficiency of the informaion or the evidence, as the holding of the udge of the Police Court on these ques-ions is final. Looking into the whole mater the judge was of the opinion that the aw imposing a penalty upon an individual is a "suspicious person" is ambiguous and as a "suspicious person" is ambiguous and indefinite, and that it cannot be enforced.

Variously Interpreted.

The words "a suspicious person," the udge held, are susceptible of an infinite ariety of interpretations, which may vary cording to the mental bent or the exerience of the party seeking to interpret t. The statute, the judge said, gives no lefinition of the words, and the offense itelf is unknown to the common law.

cycle squad arrested Edwin Goodman, colored, aged seventeen, on suspicion of having committed the theft. The wheel was not recovered.

General Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lee of 2722 N street entertained the Heliotrope Circle and its friends last evening. The entertainment in the common law.

Further commenting on the questions before the court, Judge Bradley explained how the prosecution of persons under such a charge might be made a matter of oppression. A man might be arrested merely because somebody suspected him of being "suspicious," when he had really committed no act in violation of law. There is nothing tangible about such an alleged offense. no act in violation of law. There is noth-ing tangible about such an alleged offense, he said, and in a prosecution there must be proof that the person charged has com-mitted some act. Under such a charge no man's liberty would be safe.

Man's liberty would be safe.

After Frazier's discharge he went to police headquarters with his counsel and the goods that had been procured from his room, as well as the pawn tickets taken from his pockets, were turned over to him.

JOSEPH JEFFERSON AS ARTIST. Exhibit to Be Made of Several of His Paintings.

It will doubtless surprise many people to learn that Joseph Jefferson, whose genius as an actor is recognized the land over, is also an artist. Only his friends and intimates have known that the great impersonator of human character is, in his idle moments, a delineator of nature.

It will be the good fortune of some Washingtonians to witness a display of Mr. Jefferson's talents as an artist next week. Several of his canvasses have been hung in Fischer's art store and will be placed on exhibition, by card, beginning next Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Sixteen oil paint-ings, dealing with landscapes, comprise the collection. Mr. Jefferson came to Washington yesterday and viewed them in advance of the time when the public is to be admitted, but he departed from the city before his friends could be given opportunity to congratulate him. The paintings are not for sale, and are shown merely to gratify Mr. Lefferson's friends.

ify Mr. Jefferson's friends. Many of the pieces were painted within the past five years, although he has worked in vacation time for many years, giving vent in this fashion to the poetry of his nature and his love for outdoor life.

Mr. Fischer, in introducing the souvenir catalogue issued for this exhibition, says:
"It is with sincere pleasure that we send this catalogue—opening the art season—to all lovers of art; the more so for the rea-son that to a majority it will be a surprise to meet an old friend in an avocation of which only the initiated few were aware. Joseph Jefferson, as a painter, has subtle charm and poetry, which are inspired in artists by qualities of heart and mind, and am certain nobody will see this charming exhibition without being delighted to have been brought into contact with the fasinating individuality of the painter him-

The titles of the paintings are as follows: The titles of the paintings are as follows: "Early Fall," "Forest and Stream," "Solitude," "Rustic Bridge," "An Early Frost," "Mountain Torrents," "Stoney Brook," "The Old Peach Tree," "Wood Cart in Winter," "The Copse," "The Old Mill," "The Canon," The Mill Dam," "Little Falls," "On the Beach" and "A Cool Spot." Those who saw the pictures while they were being hung speak in high terms of praise of the artistic qualities of the work. Mr. Jefferson's poetic temperament seems to have been fully revealed in these canvasses, and in a manner to stamp him an artist of rare ability.

MASS MEETING TOMORROW.

Aims of Prisoners' Aid Society to Be

Outlined. The Prisoners' Aid Society, which is to hold a mass meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the First Congregational Church, is a new institution, and occupies a field not fully covered by any other. Attention is called to the fact that the society is most thoroughly in favor of the punishment of crime, and that it only seeks to shield the innocent; that first steps in crime are to be carefully watched, and the youth who takes them is to be warned back before becoming a criminal; that persons who have served a sentence must have sympathy and help; else they are apt to plunge in again. It is also cited that the courts must often decide before all the facts are produced, if there is no one charged to look them up, and that while on one side a prosecuting attorney is a necessity to defend the public, it is quite as necessary to have an agent, at least, to defend the one charged with crime, and to see that the innocent are not made to suf-fer. At the meeting tomorrow evening the report of the doings of this society for the past six months will be read. It will make mention of hundreds of cases investigated, and of scores of persons care. and of scores of persons sent to their homes, instead of remaining here to suffer in idleness in jail, smarting with injustice. It often occurs that persons are victims of circumstances, or are sometimes tripped up in the first step, and are likely to go leeper if not helped to regain foothold. society asks for the help of all good

All medical men now agree that where the digestion is normal neither rheumatism or gout can exist.

It is clear then that to cure either of these painful disorders two things are necessary. The system must be relieved of the uric acid. This can be done by starving one's self (say for one to two weeks), so as to allow the uric acid to work itself off, or else by taking an antacid into the system as a corrective. Second, a further supply of the uric acid must

Because of the temporary discontinuance of the running of the 11th street cars Mr. George Truesdell, president of the Anacostia Railway Company, has requested the District Commissioners to discontinue the special street railway crossing policeman stationed at 11th and F streets. Mr. Trues-de'l contends that upon the withdrawal of del contends that upon the withdrawal of the 11th street cars the crossing in ques-tion ceased to be a crossing in the contem-plation of the law requiring policemen to be stationed at such intersections.

Mr. Truesdell also protested against the intention of the Commissioners to require the Metropolitan and Anacostia rallway companies to continue the payment of the policeman at the crossing in question after the 15th instant, when the 11th street cars stopped running. stopped running.

It is understood the Commissioners will refer the matter to their attorney for his
